SALT LAKER KNEW COAL OIL JOHNN

City Building Inspector Gamble Was Friend of the Famous Character.

WOULD LIGHT CIGARS WITH TEN-DOLLAR BILLS

Was Charitable to Needy, but Awful Shy on Professional Bums.

"Well I see by The Tribune that poor old 'Coal Oil' Johnny has about run it." remarked D. W. Gamble, the newly appointed City Building Inspector, to The Tribune yesterday.

'Did you know him?" "Know him! Well I guess I did. knew him before he made his pile and then after he came to Philadelphia in the early '60s, and engaged a suite of rooms at the Continental hotel at $300 a week rent, there was no hodding him back. He seemed just bent on blowing that $2,000, 000 that he fell helr to. He drank con-siderable, but I never saw him what you would call drunk.

Lighted Cigars With Money.

During this period he always smoked it cigars which he had manufactured expressly for himself in Havana, and I have seen him, time and again, pull one of these smokes from his pocket and deliberately light it with a five, ten or twenty dollar bill, which he would twist up for the purpose. Then, too, I have been fing with him in the front row at some chater John would always buy a front with a five the purpose of the purpose that the first party and have seen him become tickled with some stunt of a pretty actress and hefore the girl could make her exit he would roll up a large bill and toss it to her. And it generally was a twenty, too.

Blew in His Wealth. Blew in His Wealth.

Couring the few months he ran wild, he he broke several times; that is he inleaght he was broke. He had a fashion of depositing large sums of money in this or the other bank and then, apparently, forgetting all about the deposit until some of his acquaintances told him about it. Then he would drag out a big wad and proceed to go through with it. All the importuning of his friends that he begin and save some money did no good. He and save some money did no good just was bound to blow it all in Charitable to Needy. was also very charitable to the but he was awful shy on profes-bums. He never turned one of this latter class down, exactly, but he would give them but a small bill or a bit of fractional currency; just enough to get drink or two with.

Lavish in Expenditure.

Lavish in Expenditure.

'I have known him to stop a strange hackman driving an old broken-down rig drawn by a pair of half-dead horses with harness to match, get in the outfit and give the order to drive him to a prominent carriage repository. He would then buy a brand new rig for the jehu and have him leave the old rig to be repaired in case of a rainy day. He would then order to be driven to a first-class harness shop, where he would rig out the team with a brand new set of nice harness and then he would be driven to a sales stable, where he would trade off the old horses for a new and sprightly pair. Of course all this would about take the breath away from the owner of the rig, but Johnny would not have much to say except that he thought the fellow was needy and the new "things" dlan't cost much, anyway."

Known Many Such Cases. Known Many Such Cases.

"Yes, I have known of over a dozen of uch cases and the good Lord only knows ow many more acts of such charity poor id Coal Oil Johnny was continually up

"He delighted in practical joking on his friends and would go a long ways out of his way to spend some money, too, to get some good prank upon some of his per-sonal friends.

Tape Nearly Run Out.

we are about the same age I believe he is a year or so run out, poor fellow, and I hope his last day will fall lightly upon him. He never, to my knowledge, had an enemy other than himself, but pshaw, there have been lots of Coal Oil Johnnies developed in the old oil country of Pennsylvania."
